Good-bye to Officer Mario

Our Police Officer, Mario Palleschi, has recently been promoted to Sargent. With his promotion comes a new posting, away from our area. Whilst we wish him luck in his new role, and look forward to welcoming a new officer, Mario has numerous times gone beyond the call of duty, attending meetings in his own time and providing equipment such as the breath-test units. Thanks Mario!

Register today to keep the Telemarketers at bay

The recent launch of a national 'Do Not Call' register is a great win for Queenslanders, says Fair Trading Minister Margaret Keech. Mrs Keech said she was pleased to see the Federal Government had finally taken action on this important issue after dragging the chain for so long. "Now that this national register has finally been put in place people can protect themselves against annoying calls from telemarketers," Mrs Keech said. "Telemarketing calls are an enormous frustration for many people." Queenslanders will be very happy to know they can now put their home phone number and even their mobile numbers on the register to avoid a range of telemarketing calls.

The exemptions include:

- charities;
- educational or religious organisations;
- registered political parties and independent members of parliament;
- electoral candidates; and
- government bodies.

"Market researchers conducting surveys will also be permitted to call, however, they must follow a national industry standard providing a minimum set of requirements for these calls." For more information on the Do Not Call register, you can visit www.donotcall.gov.au.
